Men And Horses Board Train For Intensive Drill At Mt. Gretna

ENTIRE PERSONNEL IS ABLE TO LEAVE

Some Of Members Going To First Camp; Others Are Veterans

Amid the fanfare of trumpets and the roll of drums, Troop F., 103rd Cavalry entrained last evening for Mt. Gretna, where they will spend the next two weeks in intensive training.

Escorted by the Harry L. McMride Post bugle and drum corps, the boys marched from the Armory shortly before six o'clock to the Pennsylvania station on the west side, where they boarded the Pullmans which had been reserved for them and at 6:34 rolled on their way.

It had been a strenuous day for the Troopers. All afternoon they had been busily engaged in hauling the equipment to the baggage coach, one of the city trucks having been donated for that purpose, and then about mid-afternoon, the task of loading the horses into their cars was undertaken.

Horses Are Loaded.

This latter event proved a trying one, but the 30 horses of the troop were led up the runways and backed into their stalls before most of them realized what was going on and it was too late to "kick" about it. A few of the horses balked and a little coaxing and sweating was necessary before they had been put in their stalls and tied up.

The detail in charge of loading the horses performed their work very creditably and in remarkably short time, however. The horses were led up the runway to the level of the car floor and were then turned around and backed into their stalls, which had been arranged three abreast. Those who were familiar with the work were able to accomplish this in short order. Lieut.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Richard F. McClure, of New Wilmington, is the man who is keeping an eye on New Castle's scattered beetle traps for Uncle Sam this summer. He'll probably visit them every now and then.

And then again, speaking of traps, local motorists might take a tip from these repeated warnings that circulate out of the Cleveland district, reporting the presence of a score or more of traps for speeders. It's known that several New Castle drivers have slipped into the clutches of the law already. Watch your speed when you drive that way!—and other ways!

Store picnics, Pa Newc overhears, are again being arranged in a number of places. They're always calendared as red letter dates.

Suggestions reach Pa Newc's column day after day, but recently one man expressed his belief that once the city's new federal building is finished and ready, the city should excavate the diamond park to provide more parking space. It's true that it would do that. It would also do our downtown area a rank injustice. Parks are parks and when New Castle has spent time and money to develop something of pride for passing strangers, its destruction would seem uncalled for.

From post office authorities comes the information that air mail shipments out of New Castle have not

Millions Of Insects Invade New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Giving the amazing appearance of a snow storm in mid-July, enormous swarms of moths invaded New York today.

Millions of the insects clustered about electric lights. Huge quantities were killed by the searing heat.

Clouds of the insects settled on streets and driveways, making automobile driving dangerous and difficult.

Shops remaining open late and homes with open windows were invaded by the pests during the night.

Astonished witnesses telephoned police inquiring the cause. No explanation of the moth invasion was immediately available. It was probable the insects, believed to be gypsy moths were carried here by a west wind.

MULESHOE, Tex., July 9.—Down here at the "Mashed O," my old friends, the Hallsells' ranch, branding thousands of calves. I'll catch one of the little rascals yet, if I have to bribe him.

Say, I been so interested in real things I just quit reading the papers. What is Congress doing? And why did Aimee's husband establish his good name?

A rancher just rode out to the round-up and said the "happy warrior" had decided to leave the war and be happy again.

Did you know that hogs went up two dollars a hundred while the two conventions were in session? Make your own joke.

World Fliers Hurt In Crash

Latest Reports Indicate Americans Hurt In Forced Landing In Russia

(International News Service)

MINSK, Russia, July 9.—Bennett Griffin and James Mattern, American flyers who cracked up at Borisov, near here, in an attempt to set a new globe-girdling record, today were at the scene of the crash inspecting their badly-damaged plane, "Century of Progress."

They planned to return here and entrain for Moscow as soon as possible after making provisions for the care of their ship.

The flyers' injuries, first described to International News Service as being minor, today were found to be more serious although, according to the doctor who attended them, not dangerous.

Mattern, the doctor said, was the more seriously hurt, with a splintered right knee and contusion of the left palm. Griffith received surface injuries on the head and right elbow.

Captain Bintrim Reports Theft Of Troop F Property

Report was made to the police Friday by Captain H. G. Bintrim, commander of Troop F. 103rd cavalry, that three guns and a pair of field glasses had been stolen from the armory on Neshannock avenue sometime during the last week. The authorities are investigating and hope to recover the same.

The guns stolen were two of 38 calibre bearing numbers 139083 and 3781 and one of 45 calibre bearing No. 105308. The field glasses taken bore the number 282625.

Bear Claws Zoo Keeper To Death

In a terrific death struggle, "Sunshine," this 900-pound Russian brown bear, clawed and strangled to death Thomas Earl, 56, deputy keeper at a Cleveland zoo. When Earl entered the bears' cage to feed him the huge feast whirled in a sudden rage and knocked him to the floor of the cage. Before the animal could be shot he already had fatally mangled the keeper. Zoo attaches are at a loss to explain the bear's actions since "Sunshine" had been so named because of his good disposition. It has been reported that Earl had been discharged just a few minutes before.

Move To Legalize Beer Is Sidetracked

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Republican drive to modify the Volstead Act, by legalizing 2.75 percent beer, was sidetracked temporarily in the senate today pending the outcome of a row over placing a billion dollars fresh currency in circulation as a measure for improving conditions.

The currency fight supplanted the battle over beer, when Senator Bingham (R) of Connecticut, withdrew his beer "rider" to the pending Home Loan Bank bill in order to escape from a dry trap. He announced he would reoffer the beer bill as soon as the currency row is settled.

This situation developed when Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, militant dry, offered the currency bill as a substitute for Bingham's beer bill. It would have given Democratic drys, who prompted Borah's move, an opportunity to reject the beer bill without offending their party platform declaration for immediate modification of the Volstead Act. Their alibi would have been that the platform also called for expansion of the currency and they preferred the latter plank.

Aware of the trap, Bingham withdrew his bill. He declared he would insist upon a direct vote on it. Democratic drys meanwhile announced they would move to commit it to the Senate Judiciary Committee for a report on its constitutionality.

The wets in both parties were angered by the parliamentary maneuvers of the drys.

"They tried to job me," said Bingham. "I hope now to get a direct vote. If the Democrats will stand by their platform, congress will modify the Volstead Act and legalize beer before we adjourn."

Radio messages from the Coast Guard Cutter Marion said the vessel, unreported since starting in the Montauk Point-Bermuda race, June 25, was found in the Atlantic 80 miles off Nantucket.

"All hands present and accounted for and safe", radioed Warrant Bos'n Dennican of the Marion to his base headquarters at New London, Conn.

"Convoy refused. Ketch proceeding to New York under own power."

Those aboard the overdue craft are Nat Blum, A. S. Rosenberg, Benjamin Theeman, Frank Rigar, Larry Weiss and Carl Barnes, all of New York.

MANY BONUS MARCHERS ARE LEAVING FOR HOMES

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Bonus army ranks thinned today as leaders strove desperately to hold their lines against the offer of the Federal government to loan money to the veterans for transportation home and feed them on their way.

More than 200 of the thousands of bonus-seeking veterans encamped here were on their way home today, and nearly a thousand have signed applications to make use of the loans today or tomorrow. The veterans bureau has been ordered to stay open daily until midnight for the purpose of serving the marchers who wish to get tickets and 75 cents a day subsistence. A growing line was waiting outside the pay window at the bureau early this morning.

The men are given tickets, and 75 cents a day subsistence turned over to each when he boards the train for home. A system of checking departures, both of men in trucks and on trains, has been devised. Those who have trucks and wish to use them for transportation home are allowed subsistence.

Heath Hopes City's P. O. Is Commenced Soon, MacNab Says

High Treasury Chief, Guest At Pittsburgh Affair, Assures Of His Interest

Says Federal Contracts Are Being Awarded On Average of One A Day

Postmaster Lake S. MacNab was assured in Pittsburgh Friday that Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the Treasury of the United States, in whose hands all federal construction programs rest, has a personal desire to see the New Castle project speeded.

I'm very anxious to see that building commenced soon, Secretary Heath replied after MacNab had spoken of the local work. MacNab was attending the cornerstone laying ceremonies for Pittsburgh's new $8,500,000 federal building.

A guest of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce for the afternoon, MacNab sat among post office officials who had gathered from all over western Pennsylvania for the affair. Assistant Postmaster John G. McKim of Ellwood City accompanied Mr. MacNab by motor.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Mr. Heath, T. A. Dunn, head of Pittsburgh's C. of C. and other leading Pittsburghers were speakers.

Heath told his audience that Pennsylvania is now seeing the greatest amount of federal construction work that has ever been under way at one time since the nation was founded. More than $30,000,000 worth of projects will be under way in the country before fall. Federal building contracts, he reported, are being awarded on the average of one a day.

Supposed Clue In Slaying Of Officer Fades

Another lead in the murder of Officer Clarence B. Campbell was dissipated Friday evening when John Prosky, an itinerant, was questioned by District Attorney Powers, and County Detective Lee.

Prosky had gone to the authorities of Sharon saying that he had knowledge of the men who had committed the crime here some weeks ago. The authorities sent him down to New Castle and he told his story. It was a wandering story, full of inaccuracies and contained little information. He said that he had been riding a box car between Altoona and Harrisburg some time ago when two men talked about the crime in Mahoningtown.

Prosky followed them to Safe Harbor Dam, below Columbia, Pa., and said that he suspected a speakeasy proprietor there of having guilty knowledge. Prosky asked for funds to search for the criminals.

Powers and Lee were convinced that the man's mind was not clear and refused to furnish money for him to make any search for the criminals.

United States Reported As Ready To Listen To European Debtors

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LAUSANNE, July 9.—A call to the United States to join Europe in a united effort to lift the world from its present economic distress formed the keynote of an address delivered here today by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain as he signed the reparations-ending treaty of Lausanne.

MacDonald inferentially asked the United States to drastically reduce the war debts owed her by the Allies, just as the allies reduced the reparations owed them by Germany.

U. S. Hard Hit

"The most self-contained country in the world, the United States, is as hard hit as Europe," MacDonald said. "No country so strong can separate itself from other nations economically.

"Europe cannot build barriers and live prosperously inside them.

"An agreement for a solid economic foundation will bring greater security and wealth. We are rooting out old memories for which nations were ready to sacrifice both life and fortune.

"We have learned it is impossible to heap burdens on any one nation. We all live on the same planet.

"We have done much in three weeks. Let us hope it is the opening of a new chapter in history."

Then, he said emphatically as he drove home his point:

"This agreement must have a response elsewhere. What is the use of trying to live in a fool's paradise?"

Three Killed By Cuban Assassins On Havana Drive

HAVANA, July 9.—A group of assassins using a sub-machine gun today murdered Captain Miguel Calvo, chief of the Cuban secret service, his chauffeur and a detective as they were riding past the Maine monument on famous Malecon Drive.

Captain Calvo, who had been active recently in rounding up revolutionary suspects, was almost instantly killed. The chauffeur, Senor Cardenas, and the detective, whose name was La Rosa, died a short while after the shooting.

'Twas then no doubt, the big ones bit, the ones that got away, and thus the stories then, it's seventy-eight today.

FEAR ALL ON SUNKEN SUB ARE DEAD

French Helpless In Rescue Effort

Await Arrival Of Italian Ships For Salvage Efforts

SIXTY-THREE MEN GIVEN UP FOR LOST

(International News Service)

CHERBOURG, France, July 9.—French naval tugs and torpedo boats cruised helplessly today over the spot where the sunken submarine Promethee rests with 63 entombed men, awaiting the arrival of the famous Italian salvage ships Artiglio 11 and Rostro.

While many believed some of the missing men were enclosed in watertight chambers, hope for their being alive today was scant. The amount of oxygen in the ship was estimated to have been exhausted last midnight, 36 hours after the ship mysteriously sank.

Salvage Ships Enroute

The Artiglio, which recently salvaged several millions of dollars in gold bullion from the sunken liner Egypt, was enroute from Brest, which she left about noon yesterday. The Rostro was coming from Havre.

Both ships alone are capable of working in the 165-foot depth in which the French submarine is sunk. The French navy possesses no equipment for effecting rescue work under such conditions.

The Italian salvagers will attempt to attach air-lines to any compartments which may be closed.

The ministry of marine announced no attempt would be made to raise the Promethee.

To Send Divers Down

Cherbourg, France, July 9.—Although nearly everyone had given up hope that life still existed aboard the sunken submarine Promethee, the Italian salvage ship Artiglio 11 arrived today and immediately prepared to send divers down to make a final check.

Despite dangerous currents and a dense fog, the Artiglio crew planned to descend and attempt to feed air lines to any compartments free from water.

The plans were laid under the most pessimistic circumstances, however, as the time during which any of the seamen could have lived without more oxygen expired at midnight last night.

"Hope must be abandoned that a soul is alive," the marine perfecture said.

The Artiglio, which recently salvaged millions of dollars in gold bullion from the sunken liner Egypt, was forced to await low tide before it could send any men down to the Promethee, believed to lie 235 feet below the surface.

Have you heard anybody planning on attending Chicago's world's fair in 1933? Have we? I'll say so! And what a time Chicago will get out of entertaining its city-size groups of spectators while the exhibition continues.

Pa Newc has a hunch that Senior high school history classes next fall will hear the inner dope on the Democratic national convention, and possibly they'll hear something about the G. O. P. sessions. Several of the school's faculty were seated in the Chicago gallery during the conventions.

Those of you who missed Troop F's march down Washington street to their train at the Pennsylvania depot last evening missed a thrilling feeling that probably every sidewalk spectator had. To know that the paraders were New Castle's own, off for a rigid two weeks' encampment, impressed you and made you feel proudly of them. They'll return suntanned and fit for the winter.

By a strange anomaly of fate, industries which are closed down by the depression could find plenty of water to supply their needs this year. Continued rains have kept the Shenango at a five-foot stage or better all summer long.

TROOP F. GETS AWAY TO CAMP LAST EVENING

George F. Mitchell was in charge of this feature of entraining.

Then a little before five o'clock, the horse cars started backing down the track towards Pittsburgh.

Every Man Present.

The troop, for the second year in succession, will have 100 per cent attendance at camp, not a man being left behind because of illness, or any other reason. The horses are in excellent condition, and the appearance and spirit of the men and animals indicates that the Troop will make an excellent showing at camp.

While the troop was lined up ready for departure, the bugle and drum corps serenaded them with various martial airs and members of the Civilian Sponsoring Committee passed out cigarets to the boys.

Farewells were said, and the men boarded their cars for camp, where for two weeks they will work, eat, and sleep by bugle call and the shrill of whistle.

It will be a new experience for some of the men who have never been at camp before, but the majority of the members of the troop are old timers and will balance up the short comings of the newer recruits.

The Troop personnel included 65 men and three officers. They will be looking for messages from home during the two weeks they are in camp, and the Troop members may be addressed at "Troop F 103rd Cavalry, Camp Christopher, T. O'Neil, Mt. Gretna, Colebrook, Pa."

Served Coffee in Capital.
(Special To The News)

MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 9.—Wearied but little from their train ride over the mountains, Troop F, 103rd cavalry, arrived in camp early today and immediately unloaded their horses and equipment. Tents were assigned and by noon the troop was comfortable in the canvas homes that will be theirs for the next two weeks.

Early today when the troop arrived in Hatrisburg the were served coffee by John M. Crandall, manager of the Harrisburger hotel. Arrangements had been made previously by Louis B. Round, chairman of the troop committee.

There will be no drills or activities until Monday morning, it is thought. Today will be spent in getting all equipment ready, examination of the horses and arrangement of the mess kitchens. Sunday will be spent in getting cleaned up and by Monday morning the troop, along with the other cavalrymen, will be ready for the life of a soldier in the field for the next two weeks.

ORGANIZE TO BOOST THIS VALLEY DISTRICT

City some time ago did not elect permanent officers but did establish New Castle as the focal point of the organization. E. B. Harshaw of Grove City acted as chairman of Friday's meeting and called for the election of permanent officers. Frank W. Walker of Beaver Falls, one of the pioneers in the Pymatuning project, was chosen chairman, E. B. Harshaw of Grove City vice chairman and Alfred W. Chilton of New Castle secretary.

There were present at the meeting the following men, many of whom are members of the Greater Pennsylvania Council: Fred T. Fruit, Sharon; Col. J. P. Leaf, Rochester; E. B. Harshaw, Grove City; George H. Rowley, Greenville; F. R. Layng, Greenville; P. A. Smith, New Brighton; George Mahaney, Sharpsville; Fred L. Rentz and A. W. Chilton, New Castle, and C. R. Dexter, technical engineer for the Greater Pennsylvania Council.

See Great Development.

It is the idea of the council that this valley, which will be served by the Pymatuning dam, is possible of development, industrially, agriculturally, esthetically. It is the purpose of the Shenango-Beaver Valley Development association to foster that development and to that end representatives were named for part of the cities and boros in the district. More will be named in the near future. Those named Friday follow: New Castle, Fred L. Rentz and A. W. Chilton; Ellwood City, John W. Offutt; West Pittsburg, John R. Howell; Wampum, W. P. Rice; New Wilmington, Howell T. Getty; Pulaski, Dr. Frederick Taylor; Sharon, Fred T. Fruit and H. B. McDowell; Jamestown, Joseph A. Martin; Clarksville, Robert Mall; Greenville, George Rowley and John S. Morrison; Sharpsville, George Mahaney; Farrell, J. Guy Marshall and Harry Gerber; Wheatland, Harry Vaughn; West Middlesex, John Walker; Mercer, Frank Filer; Grove City, E. B. Harshaw and John McCune; Sandy Lake, W. J. Gilmore; Stoneboro, B. Clark.

To Battle Fund Cut.

The names of the Beaver county representatives have not yet been announced, but will later as will other places in Mercer and Lawrence counties.

One of the matters taken up on Friday was house bill 105 now before the General Assembly which would cut the appropriation for the Pymatuning dam $750,000. Every point of contact possible by the organization will be utilized in getting this bill defeated for it means the life or death of the dam project.

solution to the arms problem was to "put fear out of our hearts" and rebuild the world morally.

The signatories of the treaty were Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Japan, Poland, and the British Dominions, Portugal, Greece, Jugoslavia, and Rumania refused for the time being, asking further time to study it.

Just before the reparations treaty was signed representatives of Great Britain, France, and Italy signed an agreement prolonging the war debt suspension measure agreed upon June 16, as the reparations conference opened.

U. S. Ready To Listen

Washington, July 9.—The United States is ready to talk war debt reductions individually with European debtors, but there is little likelihood of any settlements prior to early December, just before the next payments are due.

Comprehensive preliminary negotiations will have to ensue before any concrete proposals are submitted, officials felt, and any change in the amount of war debt payments must be approved by congress. The Lausanne Conference agreement of Europe to cut Germany's reparations down to $750,000,000 have already drawn warnings against reduction of war debts on Capitol Hill.

Plans for hearing expected appeals of the debtors will be worked out only after the state department has received a full text of the Lausanne agreement and carefully studied it. Officials assured. This government has stated many times in recent months that it would hear individual debtors' appeals for a cut in the war debts after Europe had reached an agreement on reparations. No promises to cancel or revise debts has been made by this country, however.

Congress Opposed

A cut in the war debts owed this country comparable to the reparations reductions agreed on at Lausanne would slash the debts from their present total of $11,000,000,000 down to slightly above $1,000,000,000. Congress is on record as opposed to any revision or reduction of the debts, and any such move will inevitably run into stiff opposition on Capitol Hill. Nevertheless, the state department will be open to appeals by the nations individually. The settlement at Lausanne has admittedly put a new face on the allied questions of reparations and debts, although this country did not take any formal part in the conference.

London, July 9.—Acting on press dispatches from Washington indicating the American government would lend a polite ear to the pleas of her debtor nations, the British government moved swiftly today to obtain reduction or cancellation of her war debt to the United States.

Berlin, July 9.—Adolf Hitler's nazis today bitterly attacked the Lausanne reparations agreement negotiated by Chancellor Franz Von Papen, seizing upon the chancellor's failure to gain political concessions as a ready means to further themselves in the coming elections.

No Change In U. S.

Washington, July 9.—Thoroughly alarmed by the prompt reaction in Europe to news from here that this government would discuss war debt revision with its European debtors, the state department today issued a formal statement declaring there was "no change" in its attitude toward these debts.

The state department voiced this government's gratification over the signing of the reparations accord at Lausanne which it characterized as "a great step forward in the stabilization of the economic situation of Europe."

Alarm Is Felt

It was apparent, however, that alarm was felt here lest the European nations become too optimistic over the chances for drastic reduction of their debts in the immediate future. The statement of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, and utterances of other political leaders at Lausanne, indicated to this government that a stampede was on to shift the major burden of reparations revision on to this government in the form of downward revision of European debts to the United States.

Farm Fire Loss Totals $7,902,529

HARRISBURG, July 9. — According to reports of the bureau of fire protection, Pennsylvania State Police, in one year's period a total of 4639 farm fires resulted in a loss of $7,902,529, or approximately 28 per cent of the aggregate loss for the entire state exclusive of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The majority of the fires were caused by seasonal conditions in the form of lightning during the summer months and spontaneous combustion and thrashing activities during the harvest period.

Fire Bureau officials hope that the disastrous losses will stimulate action in the farming areas to adopt the greatest caution against similar losses during the present season.

Many Children Killed By Autos

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Of the 724 persons killed in motor vehicle accidents during the first five months of the year, 126, or 17.4 per cent, were children 14 years old or less. The total killed, all ages, in May was 14.1. Twenty-five, or 17.7 per cent, were children. This compares with 37 children killed in May, 1931, a decrease of 32.4 per cent.

'Confessions' Of German Slayer Are Found False

Confess To All Manner Of Crimes They Did Not Commit

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 9.—The German police are put to greater inconvenience by "murderers" who give themselves up and confess than by slayers who attempt to escape, Dr. Theodor Haubach, press chief of the Berlin police, told the International News Service.

"Scores of men and women come to us daily in a state of nervous exhaustion and confess in the most convincing manner to all sorts of brutal crimes," Dr. Haubach said. "Most of them are men who stumble into police stations and say, 'God, I have just killed my wife!'

Many of them collapse in a faint and when they have revived the captain sends out a detective to investigate. The wives alleged to have been murdered are usually found peeling potatoes in the kitchen or doing the housework in perfect ignorance of any attempt on their lives."

At first the police sent out squads of detectives on such cases. In many cases it was difficult to find the alleged victim. The detective force was found to be too small, so now only one policeman is sent with the self-confessed "murderers" to ascertain whether a crime was actually committed.

The German police solve more than 75 per cent of all murder mysteries, Haubach said. There are only three unsolved mysteries on the books of the Berlin police, he asserted.

Society Would Prohibit Sale Of Dangerous Toys

Claimed That Many Persons Are Injured Every Year

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Absolute prohibition of the manufacture and sale of dangerous toys such as air rifles, cap pistols, slingshots, bows and arrows, darts, toy guns and other devices for projecting missiles, firecrackers and torpedoes is advocated by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness in the report of a study of eye accidents in child play just made public by the society.

The society finds that there are now in schools for the blind some 500 children who have lost their sight as a result of accidents, chiefly through the use of fireworks, air rifles and other weapons. Each year between 750 and 1,000 children suffer accidental eye injuries in the United States, according to C. Edith Kerby, statistician of the society, who analyzed data of such accidents throughout the country.

About 70 children are actually blinded by accidents annually, and an extraordinary proportion of these accidents, Miss Kerby says, occur on the Fourth of July and during the few days preceding and following.

The society found that while more than 100 cities in the United States have some sort of ordinance restricting the manufacture, sale or use of air rifles and other weapons as children's toys, the vast majority of these laws are either inadequate or not properly enforced. The survey shows relatively fewer accidents to children in communities where there is restrictive legislation.

Since a single small town having no fireworks legislation may act as "bootlegger" and sell fireworks to inhabitants of surrounding communities which are presumably protected by ordinances, the society advocates statewide and interstate prohibition of fireworks, firearms and other weapons as children's toys.

Experiments Made On Pike's Peak

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., July 9.—Far up on the Arctic slopes of Pikes Peak a group of scientists are carrying on experiments in various branches of experimental work.

The research at high altitudes has been carried on each summer since 1917. This year, Dr. Frederick E. Clements, head of the laboratories, maintained by the the Carnegie institute, is in charge of the research work. Dr. Clements is being aided by 12 scientists from various parts of the country.

Iceman Popular With Husbands In Alabama Town

(International News Service)

GAINESVILLE, Ala., July 9.—Popularity of the iceman with Gainesville housewives is something scandalous.

And, believe it or not, he ranks ace-high with the husbands, too.

For the iceman keeps Gainesville iceboxes filled at no cost to the householder. The city foots the bill.

And there's no strings attached, for this city is entering its second year of a tax holiday.

The city runs its own ice plant and no property taxes are necessary, for street taxes and court fines are ample to bear all municipal expenses.

"While we get our money from street taxes, fines and other sources," Mayor P. M. Norwood explained, "the secret of our success is that we spend our money wisely—we have no grafters or politicians. We have a cash balance and no bills, current or bonded."

Gainesville is a municipality in west Alabama with a population of 400.

Soviet Orders Electrification Of All Armenia

(International News Service)

ERIVAN, Armenia, July 9.—Widespread electrification of the Soviet Republic of Armenia has been decided upon as one of the leading accomplishments of the second Five Year Plan.

According to plans, Armenia in 1937 will have electric power to the tune of 584,000 kilowatts. With the typical passion for big figures, this current production means 2,700,000,000 kilowatt hours per year. Soviet engineers have reckoned out.

All bath-houses in Armenia, all bakeries, factory kitchens, laundries, and workshops are to run on electricity. Industry is to be completely electrified. Large apartment houses, yet to be built, are not only to be lighted but heated as well by electricity.

Interurban electric trains are to speed from Erivan to neighboring towns. Main line railroads, there is one, are to run on electricity.

Per capita consumption of electricity in Armenia will increase from 28 kilowatt hours per year to 483 kwh in 1937, it has been decided.

The plans are all neatly worked out. Untold hours have been spent drawing up charts and statistical tables. To the Russian mind, this about finishes the job; just a few practical details remain before Armenia glows like Broadway.

All the countries indebted to us inform Uncle Sam that they cannot pay up. We've found that out.—St. Joseph Gazette.

CHILD HURT ON BROKEN BOTTLE

Little Alice Bland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bland, 329 Park avenue, nearly severed the toes on both her feet Thursday evening when she dropped a milk bottle she was carrying onto the walk and then stepped on the broken glass to get away from it.

The toes on both feet were badly cut, some of them being nearly severed from the foot. Medical aid was summoned and the feet dressed, but the little girl will be unable to walk for some time.

CAMPAIGN IS BEGINNING

THE presidental campaign, already under way, will be with us until November. The issues have been drawn and the respective platforms approved at national conventions spectacularly staged.

Last week the Democratic hosts decided that against President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, the battle would be waged by Governor Roosevelt of New York and John N. Garner of Texas, speaker of the house.

Mr. Hoover, it is expected, will defend administration policies, point out the course he intends to pursue in an effort to lift this nation out of its doldrums. The Democratic standard bearer, with a dash and vigor, will assail Republican leadership, contend his solution will speed the return of prosperity, and will keep hammering away with the hope of winning sufficient votes to place him in the White House.

We shall witness an exciting campaign on the part of both parties, the spell-binders of which will have for an audience a receptive public eager to hear a frank and direct discussion of problems which cry out for satisfactory settlement.

In his Chicago speech Governor Roosevelt declared, "I say to you now from this day on the Eighteen Amendment is doomed."

The New Castle News does not believe the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment would insure the return of prosperity or prove a penacea for all of the nation's ills, as some of the loudest boosters for repeal would have us believe. On the contrary, facts show that there is negligible ground for any such assertions.

However we trust Mr. Roosevelt will be equally positive and frank upon other issues.

There is every reason to believe Mr. Hoover will be straightforward and explicit in letting the country know his views upon countless public questions of the day.

A new political era appears to have arrived. Never before were men and women so keenly alert to issues of a political nature, nor perhaps have ever been more responsive to helpful suggestions for a way out of their economic troubles. They want no evasions, but they do desire an honest, thoughtful, constructive and sane plan that will lead them back to normal times.

GOOD NEWS FOR WESTERN FARMERS

From Chicago comes news of a month of uninterrupted advances in the price of hogs, cattle and grain. The effect has been to lift the gloom that had settled upon the meat-packing industry. With hogs showing an increase of 57 per cent. in a month and the farmer finding an advance of from $200 to $300 a carload on his live stock, there is reason for hopefulness. Charles E. Snyder, one of the representatives of the Western agriculturists, says that "these advances lend new courage and hope, not only to the live-stock farmer, but to all business, and they may prove to be symbols marking the beginning of that long-looked-for turn for the better."

It goes without saying that when the conditions of the farmers in the West show signs of improvement the effects will be felt all through that section. And if the West revives it will not be long before business will be stimulated in every part of the Nation. We may look for fluctuations naturally in the cattle and grain market; but the significant part of the news from Chicago is that it is the most encouraging we have had in three years.

THE LOS ANGELES RETIRES

The dirigible Los Angeles has been decommissioned. Its helium gas has been put in storage tanks for the use of other lighter-than-air craft of the navy. Its engines are to be removed. Its officers and crew are being assigned to other posts—some with the new ships, Akron and Macom, others to duty at the Lakehurst, N. J., hangar.

The Los Angeles is not yet eight years old as it goes into retirement. It has seen busy days as a training ship and has delighted many Americans as it has floated about over the country on various errands and expeditions. Experiments made with this ship have helped in designing other dirigibles and in mapping out ocean air mail possibilites.

Less than eight years old—yet the Los Angeles holds the record for longest useful life of any dirigible up to now. Dividing the cost of construction, operation, operation and maintenance of these great airships by the number of their useful years shows them to be very costly things. Perhaps they will eventually justify their building in practical ways. So far they seem to be chiefly playthings.

Real estate is not included in the wealth to be redistributed by law in Chile because that is the prerogative of earthquakes down there.

The charge that Governor Roosevelt is hedging in Mayor Walker's case seems to be based on his appointment of two smart lawyers to prepare a digest, which will have to be digested by somebody else.

That Word "If"
Use It Sparingly
It Leads to Melancholy

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Be careful of that little word "If". It's like strong drink; it's like pretty poison oak leaves; it's like fruitless day dreaming, it's glamorous temptation.

Did you see that play, "The Green Pastures"? Did you read the book? Do you remember that scene in De Lawd's office, when he's sitting at his desk, going over his accounts, and behind his back De Angel Gabriel looks at his miraculous horn, and looks at it and looks at it again, and licks his lips and lifts it slowly to his mouth? And just at the instant when Gabriel MIGHT have blown a blast, just a little blast, on the horn of the Last Judgment, De Lawd says sharply, "Watch y'self, Gabe!"

You watch yourself, too. Keep away from that little word "IF". It's dangerous. It'll cause you more trouble than Gabriel's horn.

You get to fooling 'round with that little word and the first thing you known you begin to feel sorry for yourself. You say:

"If my grandfather had only kept all that land we'd all be rich today. If my other grandfather hadn't wasted all of his money in speculation, I wouldn't be worrying about nickels and dimes today. . . . If the market had stayed up. . . . If I hadn't gone into the market at all. . . . If I hadn't quit school. . . . If I hadn't been an only child. . . . If I hadn't lived on a ranch. . . . If I'd only studied medicine instead of architecture. . . . If my eyesight had been better. . . . If I'd planted potatoes instead of wheat. . . . If my eggs had all hatched. . . . If I hadn't done this, I would have done that, and I would have followed that road, and I wouldn't have decided as I did, and I would have done something else, and everything else, and everything would be better than anything is now. . . . If and if and if and if."

And if wishes were horses beggars would ride and if wishes were fishes we'd have some fried. Keep away from that dangerous word "If". It leads down a road of melancholy. It's never cheerful, never quite truthful. You start too many sentences with that little word and you'll be sorry, you'll be sorry. . . . That's a fact.

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS

When you are away from your home are you constantly conscious of an effort to conduct yourself pleasingly to the general public?

You consider how you shall use your hands; your facial expression comes in for much thought as well as how you walk and talk.

You are constantly restraining your natural impulses are posing.

You know your jaws are too set, your disposition too irritable, your face generally too hard to be pleasing.

At times, among strangers, you permit your antagonistic spirit to crop out and feel much chagrined should an acquaintance appear suddenly to witness your portrayal of your character.

When you come to think of it squarely, you seem to be acting all the time, when you are in public.

It mortifies you that you should unconsciously lapse from the pose.

You wish you were big and important enough to act as you please.

Perhaps you do not realize that none are important enough to act in an insolent or arrogant manner and get away with it.

If you think that anyone can be free and independent to act and do as he or she desires without consideration for other people you are mistaken.

If it is meanness that you wish you were free to show, no wonder that you are self-conscious.

Just Folks

PEACE COURAGE

When clouds are gray and cannons roar,
To die for freedom men go forth.
And East and West and South and North,
From Lake to Gulf and shore to shore,
See brave men put their pleasures by,
Prepared for liberty to die.

All through the weary marches long
They smell the cannon's fetid breath.
Encamped upon the field of death
They'll bolster courage with a song,
And 'gainst the foe's grim barricade
Rush, charging, cheering, unafraid.

God grant us in these troubled days
The courage war-time seems to give;
Make all men brave enough to live,
To tread the storm-swept uhill ways,
And face the tasks of lesser strife
As soldiers—unafraid of life.

If men who march to die can sing,
Does troubled peace more terrors hold,
That failure makes our blood run cold
And care becomes a fearful thing?
Should we let faith and courage break,
Called on to live for freedom's sake?

AS TO ERRORS

Speaking of newspaper work, we believe some folks only read newspapers to discover the typographical errors. Hardly a day passes but what some reader kids us about even the smallest error. It's an odd thing, but matter prepared for printing can be read and re-read and re-read again, even half a dozen times—then, as soon as the first few papers come off the press someone will discover an error jigging around all over the front page like a wig-wag signal starting to work just as you get right on top of a railroad crossing with the family flivver. Naturally 10 to 50 papers will get into circulation before the press can be stopped and the error corrected. Of course, with an offensive error, all the papers containing it would be called in and destroyed; but if the error is inoffensive it is let go on the grounds it would be too great a material loss to destroy the copies already printed. However, we'd like to wager there were chiseled errors on Moses' tablets of the Ten Commandments, if only the original issue could be dug up.—Hollister Free Lance.

Siam's Ruler Wins Applause As Royal Clan Meets Defeat

Modern Ideas Of Ruler, Reduced Foreign Trade And Farm Problem Viewed As Factors In Establishment Of Limited Monarchy

Tranquil Siam, one of the last of the so-called absolute monarchies on the globe, is believed by Americans to have been influenced by the modern ideas of King Prajadhipok in conducting its mild revolution while still retaining its royal leader. With a limited monarchy and a People's Party, the Asiatic country is held to have eliminated the King's numerous relatives, who have been strong and expensive factors in the government. The recognized causes of unrest are the depression in foreign trade and the desires of the agricultural population for better conditions.

"The leaders of the revolt," in the opinion of the ALTOONA MIRROR, "manifested surprisingly good common sense when they invited the king to remain upon his throne. He is an experienced ruler and something of a man of the world. He has liberal tendencies, but was bound by a lot of traditions and ceremonies that precluded the possibility of manifesting any real humanitarian interests in his subjects. Now that his country has cut loose from the past and is to inaugurate a new era he ought to make a good ruler for Siam."

"It has been a long, long road from America and Europe to Mandalay—and Bangkok—but we are getting on," says the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, with the suggestion that "the citizens of Siam will have the privilege of making their own mistakes." The Journal offers the explanation of the change: "Prajadhipok, the smiling young man who when he came on a visit to America was as democratic as a native-born, was not fitted to be an absolute monarch. That is not to say that he lacks talent as a ruler. He seems to be both fair and wise. But it was easy to see that he is too much a man of this age to fit in with the tradition of divinity on earth. He could pretend, of course, and for a while he did. But those around him must have seen through the pretense, and after a while the people did also. The depression struck Siam as it did so many other countries. There was unrest and suffering. The people turned to Prajadhipok as they had turned to a long line of his ancestors. He alone was charged with the responsibility of aiding them. He could do nothing of himself to relieve them; he knew that, and pretty soon they knew it. So they decided that they would participate in government."

Observing that "the King will now be able to break the tradition of national exploitation by the royal clan and substitute for it a cheaper and more efficient system in much closer keeping with his own plans for his people," the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE says of the economic conditions: "Despite the fact that Siam is an agricultural country with a very simple social organization, and despite the enviable state of its national finances, the little kingdom has established sufficient foreign trade connection to lay it open to the universal contagion of the depression. The shoe has pinched just hard enough to make the agricultural classes restive under new taxes and to prompt them to look for a domestic scapegoat upon which they could vent their ill humor. It is worth noting that they have not in this fretful mood shown any disposition to visit their resentment upon King Prajadhipok, but have gone to him rather as an ally against his numerous princely kinsmen."

Believing that "King Prajadhipok has demonstrated the enormous possibilities for royalty when one of its members acts with intelligence and tolerance instead of acting like royalty," the ATLANTA JOURNAL emphasizes the fact that "he rises triumphant above a quiet revolution, providing, if nothing else, that there is an art of kingship which has been neglected for many a century." The HUMBOLDT TIMES of EUREKA, CALIF., remarks that the monarch "was a pretty nice sort of a fellow, who hired American editors to run his newspaper, had Siamese chorus girls dance for tourists, and came to this country to get his eyes fixed." That paper adds: "My, what these Siamese are letting themselves in for! Pretty soon there will be primaries, then there will be scandals."

Going back into history, the NEW YORK TIMES recalls that, "since the middle of the 19th Century, the Kings of Siam have been reformers of old abuses, adapters of Western civilization," and states that "the honorable part of Americans as advisers about these changes is familiar." The SARATOGA SPRINGS SARATOGIAN points to the unusual contrast that "European revolutions since the war have headed away from democracy, and have had a dictatorship of one kind or another as their object, but the revolution in Siam has ended a dictatorship and given the Siamese a larger degree of freedom than they had before." That paper finds the "demonstration rather encouraging."

"What has occurred," in the judgment of the HAMILTON (ONT.) SPECTATOR, "is merely the anticipation of events which, under the enlightened regime of the sovereign, would have come to pass themselves, though by more gradual stages." The Spectator points out that "an attempt was made some years ago, on the initiative of the sovereign, to establish a legislative council" and says of conditions in that country: "Great improvements have been effected in the judiciary system, public education, social development, etc., but there still re-

ANOTHER HOARDER.

There is much hoarding of money just now in the world. Some hoard it at home and some in Safety Deposit Boxes, but here is an old-fashioned hoarding pair:

An elderly German couple decided to buy the farm adjoining their property. The price agreed upon was $16,000 and they went to town to conclude the deal.

They entered the bank carrying an old battered milk pail with a tin cover which they set on the floor between their chairs.

When the time came to pay, the old farmer pulled the pail up on his lap and started to count out an assortment of money, much of which had been out of circulation for some time.

Finally he reached the bottom and stopped, obvoiusly very upset. "Why, there is only $14,000 here," he explained.

His wife looked equally concerned for a moment; then her face brightened. "Ach, papa, you brought the wrong pail," she exclaimed.

Sound Public Works Planning As Practical Economy Measure Urged By Commerce Secretary

By DR. JULIUS KLEIN
Assistant Secretary Of Commerce

If we could bring an end to this period of economic readjustment, give jobs to everybody by embarking on a huge program of public works it would indeed be 'a consummation devoutly to be wished." But, unfortunately, somebody has to pay the bills for public construction, and unless the work is something that "somebody" (who, of course, is that same taxpayer that has to pay a good many more bills than he likes, these days) really needs, then an indiscriminate expenditure of his money is not going to make the country any better off than it would if a vast army of men were to be set to work building a ladder to the moon.

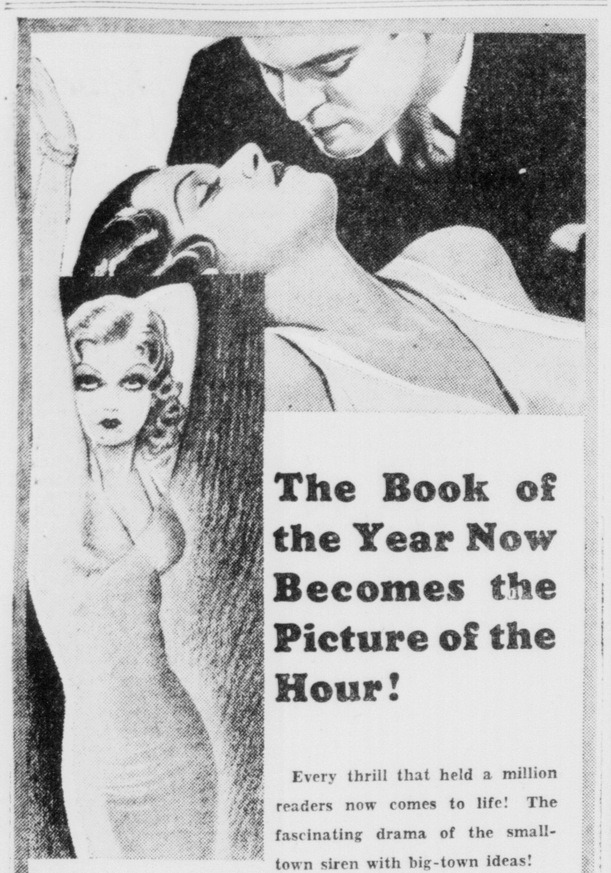

Long range planning eliminates guess work and furnishes a sound and uniform basis for predicting financial requirements and the various estimates made in connection with the public budget. By correlating the activities of the various agencies concerned with public construction it is made possible to insure that each improvement, great or small, will be undertaken at its proper time.

Long range planning means plans made deliberately with sufficient time to give adequate study to the factors involved and the relative merits of alternative schemes. This procedure is certain to produce better results at less cost than would those expedients sought in times of emergency when speed is the only consideration. As a result of planning, the aggregate of public expenditures can be held within the proper financial means of the community and provide a surplus of borrowing power available for emergencies. For adequate credit is essential to the acceleration of public works in emergencies.

All of us, I believe, are especially interested today in improving the business methods of government. The federal government is finding that this matter of planning public works is one of the really big steps it can take to give value received to the people it serves. So have many state, county and municipal governments. Extension of this very common-sense public policy will inevitably result to the real good of the nation as a whole and the units of which it is composed.

HOLD REYNOLD'S FRIEND IN DEATH INVESTIGATION

Tobacco Heir's Death Is Probed

Widow Of Reynolds Declares She Was In Daze 48 Hours

CORONER WILL HEAR MORE FACTS

By DAVID F. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 9.—Ab Walker, chum of Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, was held in custody today as a material witness in connection with the death of his friend.

Walker was secretly taken to jail following his testimony before a coroner's jury regarding the party at the Reynolds palatial estate and events leading up to the finding of young Reynolds' body on a sleeping porch with a bullet through the head.

Under Guard.

Permission was later given him to spend the night at a local hotel guarded by two deputy sheriffs. Walker left the jail accompanied by Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, sisters of Smith Reynolds.

An attorney for the brother of Smith, Richard J. Reynolds, also accompanied the boy.

Richard Reynolds, who was cruising on a yacht off Africa when the tragedy to his younger brother occurred, was said to have communicated with members of his family here regarding the death of Smith. He was reported speeding back to the United States.

The testimony of Walker before the coroner's jury was not made public.

Accompanied Reynolds.

It was Walker who accompanied young Reynolds on several night parties away from home. On July Fourth he and Smith stayed away all night from their homes.

Walker told Coroner W. N. Dalton that Smith had a gun and had given him another one. The coroner said a gun was found in the drawer of Walker's guest room. The gun owned by Reynolds was found beside the body.

Walker, according to his own story was the first to reach Smith after a shot was heard at 1:15 a. m. July 6.

With the testimony of Mrs. Smith Reynolds, formerly Libby Holman, Broadway singer, furnishing little aid to authorities, the inquest into the death of the 20-year-old heir to $20,000,000 was to be continued today.

Widow in Daze.

The widow of the tobacco prince testified that she had been in a daze for almost 48 hours covering the period in which young Reynolds was found shot through the temple across the bed of his sleeping porch.

She offered no explanation for the protracted period of mental unconsciousness except to state that it was the first time in her life that it had happened.

"I retired at the usual hour, 11 o'clock, on Monday night, July 4 (the night before the party which culminated in the finding of the body of Reynolds), testified Mrs. Reynolds.

"I do not remember a single occurrence of the entire day and night of Tuesday (July 5, the party night) with the exception of a flash when Smith called my name—Libby.

"I saw a gun in his hand and he fell.

"I do not remember anything until Wednesday night, the next night, when I woke up and found myself in bed."

State Has Vast Water Resources

Pennsylvania Is Favored So Far As Quantity Of Water In Concerned

HARRISBURG, July 9.—"Pennsylvania is well favored, so far as the quantity of our water is concerned," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, recently, "which in a sense accounts for our great industrial, as well as agricultural development. The state is well watered by numerous springs and streams, supplied by our average rainfall of 45 inches annually."

"We have a relatively high water table, which is with us a most important factor. In Pennsylvania we depend on the fall and spring rains and the winter snows to maintain this water table. The abundant summer rains either quickly run off or are thrown back into the air through luxuriant vegetation.

"With us, then, the problem of conservation in normal times, is one of quality rather than quantity, with the exception of flood control in certain localities. In one instance only has the state seriously attacked the problem of the conservation of water from the quantity standpoint, embodying in its effort, flood control, and the assurance in the late summer months of a sufficient quantity of water for domestic and industrial uses, in that particular valley.

"In the northwestern part of the state lies the Shenango River, a tributary of the Beaver River, which in turn empties into the Ohio. These rivers flow through a highly industrialized community, and the valleys have frequently been subject to disastrous floods, while in the summer there is not a sufficient flow, many times, to supply properly either the municipalities or the industries of that region.

"The state is now erecting a dam at the Pymatuning swamp, which will, when completed, regulate and control the flow of water in this area, in such a manner as to insure a flow in the Shenango at the centre of the industrial district, of about 400 cubic feet per second, whereas in 1931 it fell as low as 8 cubic feet per second."

"What's the use of going camping," asks Eph Keljoy of Newport, "when you can get all the mosquito bites anybody could desire without stirring off the front porch.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Two Ask Leave To Withdraw Pleas

Petitions Presented To Court By Joseph S. W. Smith And I. S. Foust

In the case of the commonwealth against Joseph S. W. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Smith and McQuiston Company, who had entered a plea of nolle contender at court to violation of the liquid fuel tax act, Smith presented a petition at court today, asking leave to withdraw plea and enter a plea of not guilty.

He alleges that the firm had made a return to the Department of Revenue and had paid all tax due. Further that the firm had not been engaged in the sale of gasoline. Judge Hildebrand granted the petition.

In the case of the commonwealth against I. S. Foust, Kile Boyer and R. A. Boyer, trading as the Boyer-Foust Motor company, also charged with a violation of the motor fuel act, Foust asked leave to withdraw a plea of nolle contendere, claiming that it had been made without the advice of an attorney. He desires to enter a plea of not guilty. A rule was issued by Judge Hildebrand on the district attorney to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

Mortality Records Normal This Year

Same Trend Shown In State As During Past Years

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Mortality statistics as compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, are now available for the first four months of 1932. They show no wide divergence from those of recent years, for the same period. With slight variations, the same type of disease continue to prey upon human life in Pennsylvania at about the same ratio and with about the same trends as have been shown by the records of the recent past.

Diseases of the heart continue to claim by far the largest number of lives, with pneumonia taking second place for the early months of the year. Third place is held by cancer, while bright's disease is fourth and apoplexy fifth. It should be noted that tuberculosis is no longer listed among the first five, when we consider agencies of death.

The so-called "degenerative diseases" of late middle life and early old age are listed as the causes of more mortality than any other malady, with the single exception of pneumonia. The latter continues to hold high place, but often that is given as the final cause of a death, when a patient was really brought down from health by some one of the other organic diseases.

If deaths from motor accidents could be held to the average established in the first four months, then the final figures for 1932 would show a great reduction in the death toll for the year. But unfortunately we still have the summer and fall, with its heavy list of deaths on the road, ahead of us, so it is to early to hope for greatly lower figures from that source.

Tuberculosis reports 1,843 deaths for the first four months of 1932. If this rate is continued, the year will show about the same number as 1931.

Abandoned Farms Furnish Shelter

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Buildings on many Pennsylvania abandoned farms are being used by unemployed families as havens of refuge it is reported by field workers of the Greater Pennsylvania Council, engaged in surveying the state's lands.

So many families have moved in that the council workers are finding few uninhabited houses, although many farms are abandoned for farming purposes.

In some cases the people are making an attempt to garden; in others they are simply using the buildings as a shelter, while heads of families seek what work they can get.

The council's survey, made in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State College, will be used to outline the best future uses of land now idle or passing out of use. Harvey S. Adams of Butler is in direct charge for the council. Field workers have now covered Centre, Indiana and part of Armstrong counties.

Wesley Ferrell Wins Sixteenth

Cleveland Pitcher Hopes To Win Thirty Or More Games This Year

PIRATES AGAIN DEFEAT GIANTS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—This is Wes Ferrell's big year.

The aggressive fire-ball hurler of the Cleveland Indians has managed to win 20 games or more for the past three seasons, but this year he seems destined to realize his ambition of turning in 30 victories. He won his 16th of the campaign yesterday, beating Washington, 6 to 5.

Charley Ruffing of the Yankees held Detroit to six hits and gained a 3 to 2 decision over Vic Sorrell.

Jimmy Foxx poled his 30th homer as the A's downed the White Sox, 6 to 4. In the nightcap Roy Mahaffey, beaten in his last seven starts, held the Sox to five hits and won in a romp, 11 to 2.

Eddie Gallagher, former Boston College southpaw, was a flop in his debut with the Red Sox. The Browns blistered him for six runs in the second inning, winning 8 to 4.

Vaughn Stars

The Pirates, winning most of the close ones like a good, game club, nosed out the Giants in the ninth, 8 to 7, when their sensational rookie shortstop, Floyd Vaughan, clouted a single with the bases jammed.

The Cubs, close behind the Pirates, will be more formidable with Bob Smith back in pitching harness. This veteran right-hander, making his first start in five weeks, hurled Chicago to a 6 to 4 win over the Phils, with the aid of five errors by the Quaker infield.

Boston stayed right on Chicago's heels as Bobby Brown, sensational young southpaw, held the Cardinals to four hits and triumphed, 6 to 1. Dean and Derringer hurled for St. Louis.

Brooklyn indulged in an old-time batting spree at the expense of the Reds, nicking four Cincinnati hurlers for 16 hits and winning by a 15 to 5 landslide.

Investigate Throwing Of Acid Solution On Beautiful Greens Of Lido Club

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—A mysterious damage to the golf links of the Lido Country Club caused by an acid solution which was poured on them was under investigation today by officials.

The Metropolitan Open golf championship was scheduled over the course for the latter part of next week.

Just before the National Open championship was played at the Fresh Meadows Club in Flushing recently threats were made to injure the club's course after permission was refused gamblers to make books on the match. Nothing untoward happened, however.

Officials of the Lido said they received no proposals or threats in connection with the tournament.

UNIQUE PROPOSAL

There was a shy young man who wanted to propose to his lady love, but never dared. Finally he took her to his family lot in the cemetery and said: "Wouldn't you like to be buried here some day?"

Industrials Hold Steady

Little Change In Prices In Stock Market Early Today

SOME STOCKS REACTIONARY

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—The stock market resumed its slow decline in the short session today after a feeble flurry at the opening.

Continued weakness in American Telephone which went to a new low at 71⅝ was again a depressing influence on the market.

Reactionary tendencies in the specialty stocks such as American Can, Coca Cola and several others stimulated trades for the decline to greater activity.

The industrial group, however, presented a comparatively steady appearance with steel holding firm around its previous close. The steadiness of this leader evidently indicated that the market is more or less resigned to a substantial decrease in unfilled tonnage due at noon today. A drop ranging from 100,000 to 125,000 tons in the backlog is looked for.

Little change was evident in the rail group with the majority of the carrier stocks such as Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania holding steady. Union Pacific, though, was again a target for selling and eased slightly.

Tobacco shares continued in their rut and showed no disposition to break off the trading range as American Tobacco held unchanged from its close last night.

Oil issues maintained a consistently steady course with Standard of New Jersey gaining fractionally, while Standard of California was unchanged, and ignored the announcement that it was quitting the public utility business.

Trading in the bond market was featured by the German issues which ran up more than 2 points each and brought small advances in the rest of the foreign government group.

Commodities taking their cue from stocks eased moderately. Cotton slipped down about 50 cents a bale, while Wheat eased fractionally in Chicago on lower Liverpool cables.

A pitcher knows how Mr. Hoover feels. He also gets the blame for defeat if those behind him are in a slump.

Stewart of Clarion and George Comfort of West Chester and Assistant Secretary Anderson of Lions Internation, from Chicago, were heard by close to 100 members of Lions' clubs in district B, the western part of Pennsylvania, gathered in Hotel Conneaut at Conneaut Lake park last night.

Anyway, we'll soon test the anti-communist argument that men won't try to take money if the government takes it all.

Links King and Ex-King

Experts are agreed that the men shown here are the two greatest golfers in the world, but they cannot agree on which is the greater. Gene Sarazen (left), by his record victory in the British Open, followed by his sensational triumph in the U. S. National Open, joins the golf immortals who have turned the double trick. But being a pro, he can never equal the feat of Bobby Jones (right), who captured the Open and Amateur titles of both countries. However, experts say that Sarazen's 66 in the last round of the U. S. Open gives him a glory all his own. Photo was made when Sarazen and Jones took part in a charity game at Fresh Meadows, L. I., the day after the former had won the Open title.

Two Machines And Rig Collide

Triple Crash Near Harmony—No One Is Injured In Mix-Up

ZELIENOPLE, July 9. — Two machines and a horse and buggy figured in an accident on the Perry Highway a short distance above Harmony about noon Friday. The machines were not damaged, and the horse injured, also the buggy damaged, although no one was badly hurt.

A machine coming down the Perry Highway driven by John Allen of Meadville, was struck by a machine driven by John Miller who was going toward Potersville, and the buggy of John Miller of Harmoney who is a Rural mail carrier out of Harmony on Rural No. 2 was also struck by the machine driven by Miller. He attempted to pass the machine driven by Mr. Allen, and Allen wrecked his machine trying to avoid being hit by the machine driven by Miller, when he attempted to pass the horse and buggy.

Mr. Allen was bringing his daughter, Mrs. Adah Snedeker to the home of friends in Zelienople and she had her six weeks old baby boy with her. The child was knocked across the machine but apparently not hurt, although Mrs. Snedeker was suffering greatly from shock. Two other children, Robert and Jack, were in the machine but were not injured. Mrs. Snedeker was a former resident of Ellwood City, widow of the late R. B. Snedeker, who for a number of years conducted a jewelry store on Lawrence avenue, and whose death occurred a few months ago in Meadville. Mrs. Snadeker is well known and has many friends in Ellwood City.

Mr. Miller, the mail carrier had his back injured and the horse was also hurt, as well as the buggy broken. The machine driven by Allen was badly damaged, and had to be hauled back to Meadville. He is an aged man, and also suffered from the shock. Mrs. Snedeker was able to leave Zelienople later, she being on her way to the home of relatives. The machine driven by Miller was also damaged to some extent.

Two men who figured in the accident were named John Miller, although they had never seen each other before.

Small Business Men Protesting Recent Arrests

Fined Under Ficticious Names Act Of 1917—Declare Arrests Unjust

Working under the provisions of the fictitious names act of 1917, arrests have been made in the past few days of proprietors of small establishments who have their business under some name other than their own, and fines levied.

Under the act of 1917 it is required that where a business is conducted under a name other than that of the owner, the names of the owners shall be registered with the prothonotary of the county and with the secretary of the commonwealth. Example of fictitious names are such names as Perry Highway Inn, Elite Barber Shop, New York Beauty Shop, Coney Island Hot Dog Stand, Red Hot Barbecue and the like. There is no law against using such names, except that the owner or owners must register their names.

Protests Made

Vigorous protests have been made to The News by proprietors who have been arrested. Most of them knew nothing of the act and were operating small lunch stands under names that were euphonious or descriptive. The enames were not used to violate any statute, but only to add to the attractiveness of the place, they said.

It is understood that the plan to arrest all persons not registered is on foot, and in order to avoid arrest and fine it would seem the smart thing to do to get registered. The purpose of the act seems to have been to protect the public against fraud and to make certain that the owners of a business could be located in case of an action.

To register it is merely necessary to go to the office of Prothonotary Ralph M. Campbell and pay the nominal fee and then register the name with the secretary of the commonwealth. The efine provided under the act is a heavy one and to avoid it owners not registered should do so at once.

Before polishing a stove, rub it with a cloth moistened with vinegar. This will remove all the grease and make an excellent foundation for the polish.

Two Hundred Seek Work On Streets

City To Start Removing Car Company Rails Monday Morning

Approximately 200 men had registered with Councilman Stanley Treser at noon today in the hope of securing employment when the city removes the rails and improves Hamilton street, East Long avenue and North Beaver street. The city Friday appropriated $7,500, for the work. The work will start Monday.

Michael Mulcahy has been named foreman at a rate of $4.50, a day and the men who secure work will be paid 35 cents an hour and work an eight hour day. According to Treser, employes will each secure two days work and groups of 25 will be hired each day.

Sportsmen Plan War On Waterdogs

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Sportsmen in Lycoming county will make a determined drive against the salamander, or waterdog, in county streams, Oliver M. Deibler, fish commissioner, said today.

Salamanders, waterdogs or hellbenders, as they are sometimes called, have been found to be very detrimental to fish life, the commissioner said. Not only will they eat spawn, but larger fish also are killed by the ungainly creatures. A salamander opened recently was found to contain an eight-inch trout and the tails of five smaller fish.

Old fishermen who are familiar with Lycoming county waters believe that there is a very noticeable increase in waterdogs in recent years, and that they are a real menace to fish life.

H. J. Bressler, special fish warden in Lycoming county, has been issued a permit to organize a campaign against the salamanders, and the sportsmen will work under his directions in trying to reduce the number of waterdogs.

Dark, moonless nights are considered the best time in catching the creatures.

Permits Must Be Issued Locally

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Licenses to carry and to sell firearms under the uniform firearms act can be issued only by the sheriffs and heads of police departments of cities. Applications should not be sent to the secretary of the commonwealth, whose only duties under the law are to prescribe the forms and keep records of sales sent him by dealers and of licenses to carry, issued by the sheriffs and police heads.

Applicants who have been refused licenses sometimes write to the secretary of the commonwealth, but their only recourse, if aggrieved, is by petition to the courts of quarter sessions of their respective counties.

Star Of Bethlehem Blooms Third Time

The Star Of Bethlehem Or Night Blooming Cactus Blooms For Third Time

The Star of Bethlehem or the Night Blooming Cactus bloomed for the third time, last evening, at the home of Mrs. James Grove, of 740 East Washington street.

The plant, when first secured, does not bloom for seven years. After seven years, the plant blooms once every year.

The bud, from which the beautiful flower appears, is no larger than the size of a pin head and comes out on the edge of the leaf. Mrs. Grove stated that the bud of this flower began to take shape in the early spring.

The bud grew until it became likened to the shape of a moth when it is forming its cocoon. Last evening at 9:00 it blossomed into an exquisite flower, resembling a mammoth water lily. It measured ten inches in diameter.

It has been so named, The Star of Bethlehem, for in its heart is a cradle and above the cradle is a star, hence once again reminding us of the night 2000 years ago when the Savior of the world was born.

Its fragrance is more alluring than the choicest perfume.

It closes about 4:00 in the morning. Its petals gradually fold up and it takes the same appearance as it had before it opened out.

There were many people at the Grove home last evening to view this extraordinary plant.

Pymatuning Fund Cut Plan Assailed By Forest Chief

HARRISBURG, July 9.—To cut the 1931 appropriation of $1,500,000 for the Pymatuning Dam project by half its amount, as contemplated by one of the series of Talbot-Turner group, bills, for the sake of unemployment relief would be a foolish move, according to Lewis E. Stahley, Secretary of Forests and Waters.

In the first place, he said, there is not $750,000 unexpected or unencumbered. Most of the money unspent on the dam itself is being spent on men from counties in the adjoining territory. The Department of Forests and Waters has created two work camps where 1,000 men who would be unemployed are at work on clearing the area above the dam. None of these men are employed by the dam contractor, C. R. Cummins, Inc., Cleveland, who has his own force.

The bill cutting the appropriation calls for the return of $750,000 to the general fund of the state treasury. On July 1, according to the Forests and Waters Department records, $793,000 had been spent or obligated.

The original appropriation was made for the dam, but the estimates of the engineers were high. The bid of the Cleveland firm was on the unit basis and it was found that the construction of the dam and the gatehouse, still to be constructed, ran to only $385,000.

At the special session of the Legislature the balance was made available for other work on the project. The special session act made clear just what the money could be spent for in addition to the dam structure. The department in clearing the land put its own forces in charge and recruited men from the neighborhood. By July 15, 53 per cent of the clearing will be done at a cost of $337,585, and about $275,000 more will be required from the appropriation to complete the work.

The department contemplates constructing its own roads. A test stretch has been laid, but no further construction will be undertaken until the clearing has been finished.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

What would you do if you happened to pick up twenty-six dollars in American money, loose and homeless, and attached to no purse or wallet? Would you endeavor to find the owner, or would you slide it down in your jeans?

A young caddy named Mort, out at the Castle Hills golf course had that put up to him Friday afternoon and without any hesitation turned it in to the office, where it was restored to the owner, Frank Woods, of Alliance, O.

Woods and some other American Legionnaires were punishing a few golf balls out on the course when he noticed that his roll of twenty-six dollars had disappeared. Now twenty-six bucks doesn't mean anything to Woody, well, not more than his right arm anyway, and he dismissed the matter from his mind.

When the crowd got back into the clubhouse the caddymaster asked if anybody had lost some money and Woods piped up that it was his. The roll was restored and a caddy had met a test of honesty that would turn many an honest adult from the narrow path at this time.

Found the world's worst piece of paving last Sunday. Maybe not the worst, but so classified by the people of the Ohio valley. The paving is that running through Wellsville, O., and customers if you want to ruin your disposition, endanger your springs and have the roughest ride you've had since you blew two tires, go through Wellsville, O.

After putting you through a mile or so of washboard paving, they detour you out onto a dirt road that looks as though it might be used for a model for galvanized sheet iron. What a road and what a place.

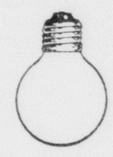

And by the same sign if you want a ride that will feed your esthetic soul, send you home raving about your own state, and give you a complete satisfaction all the way, take a ride through the Pennsylvania mountains just now. Any part of them. Go from here to Hollidaysburg and up through Bellefonte and around the Lakes to Sea highway. Go from here to Bedford by way of the Lincoln highway, take any part of your own state's hills and get an eyeful of beauty that will take you back again and again.

The mountains are never the same. After driving them many, many times, we find more and more to see and just now they are in full beauty.

A Depression?
Yes—at your Diaphragm!
And the only sensible way we know of achieving the new scooped-out effect below the bust—is to wear this new MisSimplicity. It's designed with an extreme uplift bust, while the famous cross-over straps never fail to eliminate every sign of the diaphragm—no matter how prominent. The above model is of fine peach batiste and woven elastic with an uplift of lace. $5
